Dear Mr. Woods,

I am the therapist at the East Bay Recovery Project who has been meeting with Laticia Mcillwain since 8/13/07. She has asked that I write to you regarding my opinion on early release from Supervised Probation.

During the four months that we have worked together, I have seen marked improvement in her attitude and behavior. When we first met, Laticia was taking prescription Valium on a daily basis to control her anxiety, and suffered from low grade depression, as well.

Over the period of therapy sessions, she stopped taking Valium and has learned to control her anxiety through a more positive approach involving some cognitive behavioral techniques. She has learned to substitute more positive thoughts for previously anxiety producing ones, and has engaged in positive health behaviors including working out at a health club, and watching her diet. Her depression has lifted, and her attitude has become more positive.

Laticia has obtained an interesting job, which she looks forward to engaging in. She is employed as a Team Leader for GMR Marketing, and has brought in pay stubs documenting her employment. She has a positive support system in the form of friends and a domestic partner whom she cares about. Given her improved coping strategies, positive support system, and steady employment, I believe she is at low risk of recidivism. Her prior offense was of a non-violent nature, and she has shown no signs of violence during our sessions. As such, I am fairly confident in recommending early release from Supervised Probation.

Of the many clients that I deal with, my feeling is that Laticia has one of the more promising prognosis. Depending on her motivation level, she has the intelligence and ability to further her education and vocational status. It has been a pleasure working with her, and I wish her success in future endeavors.

Very truly,

Marilyn Brodersen, MFT

Dear Mr. Woods, I have been seeing laticia McIllwain for therapy sessions since 8/13/07. To date, she has made significant progress, has a full-time job, clean drug tests, and a stable domestic relationship.

It is recommended that therapy sessions be changed from weekly to every other week, since it is felt that weekly sessions are no longer needed.If you are in agreement, I would like to cut sessions down to the first and third Tues. of the month, effective March 1,2008. Please notify my supervisor, John Jennings, at the EBCRP if this is agreeable.

Very truly,

Marilyn Brodersen,MFT
